

Initial Concept Meeting Takeaways:

- Since the script only has two characters the set pieces need to identify with the characters and their role not only in society but in the story, they also need to catch the eye of the audience and be more than just set pieces and be more of a symbol for hope/love and dismay/hatred
- One thing I am going to try to do is have a luminous light that flashes every time a cymbal occurs on stage in order to help not only draw focus to the drummer but also to severity to the situation
- Reading the script and from the concept meeting we do not really know who the kid is and mystery has a big part of the script, interpretation is key
- Hope vs Dismay

Initial Research Images: Set

Initial Research Images: Bedroom/Ladder

Initial Research Images: Set Pieces

Initial Lighting Concepts:

Hope vs Dismay

Tyranny vs Freedom

Death vs Life

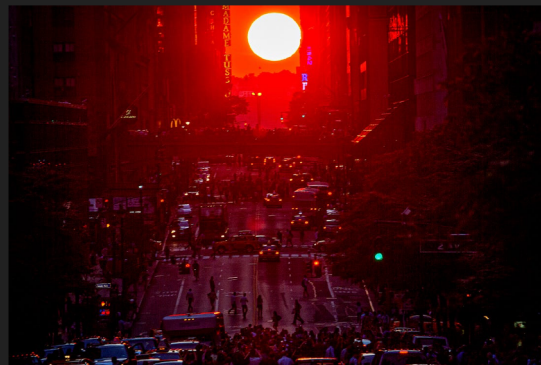

Happiness vs Depression

Safe vs In Danger

Distant from Life

- Every time a cymbal crashes a bright white light will shine on the stage

Concept Imagery for Lighting

Initial Sound Design:

- All sound from Drugs will be authentic and on stage
- Mostly all other sounds will be found, modified, and produced through speakers:
  - Door Opening
  - Sounds of New York (Cars, Buses, Lights, Etc.)
  - Wind

Pre-Show Music:

Stay a Little Longer //

Martin Hall

+

My Last Song //

The Eastern Plain

+

War //

Martin Hall

Reasoning: Lighthearted and welcoming.

Curtain Call Music:

Put On A Happy Face
from Bye Bye Birdie by Charles Strouse

Reasoning: This is the ultimate Curtain Call Sound because it not only send the audience with a happy fun eerie vibes, but a juxtaposition from the dark and eerie ending of the play.

This is my Design presentation for I Am Not Batman

- I hope to be working with you on this project
- I am huge fan of Batman myself
- I have forever wanted to do this show
- This would be a great opportunity to bring my love for Batman to life by using this unique script and creating a dark and intricate set the revolves around a mysterious boy
- Thank You!